GALAPAGOS

OCTOBER 11-18, 2010

Explore the world of whale sharks, manta rays, marine iguanas, sea lions and so much more! The Humboldt Explorer is a new vessel, which will provide guests with exceptional amenities. All cabins are air-conditioned and have private bath and showers, an ocean view, flat screen televisions and can be arranged to provide 2 twin beds or one large bed depending on guest needs. Partially covered sundecks with Jacuzzi and ample seating areas, a salon including a lounge area, a spacious dive deck with a large camera table are just some of the features. Your underwater adventures in the Galapagos will encompass everything from sharks to nudibranchs, and more. The islands are best known for amazing shark diving around Wolf and Darwin Islands. These small and remote islands are best reached by live aboard vessels for divers. Your diving experience here will generally include Galapagos sharks, silky sharks and lots of schooling hammerheads being cleaned by king angelfish. Seeing marine turtles, schools of tuna, eagle rays, and sea lions is very common. Typically, whale shark season runs from June through November, so Splash has picked this October week hoping to maximize the probability that we can see these gentle giant vegetarians! All the islands you travel to will be amazing sites for underwater photography.
